Action Triggered By Six Apparent Arson-Set Fires

An all-out search for arsonists who are endangering life in Palm Springs was on today.

Palm Springs' Police Chief A. G. Kettmann pledged that police will concentrate on efforts "to ferret out the person responsible to prevent possible loss of life in apparent arson cases on Section 14."

Injunction Urged on Water Plan

Indio Hearing Delay Sought

RIVERSIDE — Injunction proceedings against the Coachella Valley County Water District on proposed service to the Sky Valley and Sun Valley areas was urged to the County Board of Supervisors this morning.

John Bryant, chief engineer of the County Flood Control District asked that the supervisors request delay on hearing scheduled before the water district's board of directors in Indio tomorrow.

Large Area Involved

It was reported that Bryant told supervisors some 60 square miles of property involved in the Coachella district's proceedings was already within the County Flood Control District and would be subject to double taxation if covered by the Coachella District.

Questioned by the Desert Sun on the proceedings Coachella officials replied that there was apparently a misunderstanding in the county seat regarding intentions of the desert area and its needs.

Property owners there petitioned the Coachella District for domestic water service and the hearing was scheduled to hear protests on this proposal, informants said.

Decision Late Today

It was reported there was no intention for annexation of the area, only to provide water service, such as the Coachella District already does for property owners formerly served by the Rancho Ramon Water Co.

District officials said the hearing was necessary under law for protest of the proposed service. He added, however, that there already are areas in which the boundaries of the Coachella County District and Flood Control District overlap and the property owners do pay double taxes.

A decision from the board of supervisors was expected late this afternoon.

Urban Renewal Review Slated For Wednesday

Palm Springs City Council members, Planners, and Traffic Advisors are expected to hear a Wednesday review of the federal Urban Renewal, during the adjourned meeting of the city planning commission.

Planning Director Richard Coleman has asked Los Angeles representatives of the House and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Housing Authority to present the facts on the urban renewal program.

Governor Faces Birthday Here

Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, at a birthday party for him at the Tennis Club told a crowd of about 200 persons that he was reappointing Mayor Frank M. Bogert to a second term on the Mt. San Jacinto Winter Park Authority.

The Governor paid tribute to the men of the Tramway Authority, who worked for so many years to start the $7.7 million dollar project, and who now have seen a dream come true.

In addition to Bogert, members of the authority present at the affair were Earl Coffman, chairman; Francis Crocker, secretary; and V. W. Grubbs.

The Governor, aided by his wife, cut into a huge sheet cake which was formed like the state of California with the capital building in Sacramento and his picture affixed to it.

Ed Frazier who will head Gov. Brown's reelection campaign in the desert area, was responsible for the party, and was aided by another local man, Matthew J. Dragicevich.

Gov. Brown spoke only a few minutes to people at the party, telling them that one of the state's biggest problems "is its growth potential" and pointed out that a project such as the Palm Springs Tramway is very important to the recreational betterment of the state.

The Governor had a full weekend of birthday parties, starting at noon Saturday at La Quinta where he enjoyed a birthday cake with his family, then to the Tennis Club, and in the evening a party for him and friends at the La Quinta Hotel.

Sunday evening he was entertained at a dinner at the Trinidad Hotel.

Shoot-to-Kill Moslems in Algiers to Curb Terrorism

BLAZE from a four-place light plane which crashed and burned southeast of the Palm Springs Airport main runway Saturday was fought by city firemen and investigators for a half-hour as investigation of the fatal holiday crash began. The plane, piloted by Sacramento dentist

Dr. Jack Renwick, crashed as it approached the runway for a landing after a sight-seeing flight, killing four persons. A volunteer searcher found Dr. Renwick's charred membership tag from "The Quiet Birdmen's Club" Sunday. (PS Newsphoto)

City Action Will Keep Golfers Dry

The Palm Springs city council is expected to be firm today in moves to keep ill-fated golfers from plunging into the city golf course lake after errant balls.

The city, which periodically cleans the golf balls out of the artificial lake, has noted that some golfers have waded into the lake in search for golf balls which plunged into the water trap.

If the council introduces the ordinance during the meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. today golfers will wave strokes, distance, and golf ball goodbye.

The city will review the proposed city-school district agreement for purchase of a joint-use park site adjacent to the Section 2 school site. The city asked the district to purchase the $60,000 site, and sell it to the city on the installment plan.

The school district board tentatively agreed, but asked for contract language ensuring full site for recreation. The city council had sought an agreement that would give the city freedom in utilization of the south third of the site.

Other action matters before the council today include off-street parking standards revision.

Officials Probe Tragic Air Crash

A airplane crash which killed four Easter vacationers in Palm Springs continued under investigation by medical and Federal Aviation Authority officials today, as authorities pieced together possible clues to the tragedy.

The plane, a four-place Beechcraft Bonanza, slammed into a sandy wash area five-eighths of a mile southeast of the city airport's main runway and burst into flames at 4:20 p.m. Saturday.

Killed, apparently instantly, were the owner-pilot, Dr. Jack

Renwick, 49-year-old Sacramento dentist, and three passengers, Kenneth Holtkamp, 26, Lynwood; Craig Jourdanias, 23, Monterey Park; and William Steinmetz, 23, of South Gate.

The four were reported returning to the airport after a brief sightseeing flight over the Palm Springs and Coachella Valley areas. Mrs. Renwick, who accompanied her husband here on a flight from Sacramento Friday, was in Palm Springs with the couple's two children at the time of the crash.

Preliminary reports indicated a possible mechanical failure. Witnesses to the fiery crash reported that Dr. Renwick may have stalled out as he made a sharp turn to avoid another aircraft in the landing pattern.

Deputy Coroner Donald V. Mabitt reported that Dr. Renwick had some heart trouble, indicating possibility of a heart attack before the crash.

FAA officers from Ontario were at the crash scene yesterday making extensive investigation into the crash.

Students' Behavior Improves

With another Easter Week relegated to history Palm Springs Police counted up the statistics today and found this year's student visitors proved to be a better behaved group than last year.

Complaints from local citizens were down from a year ago and the only reason that arrests were up was because of a crackdown of the curfew law.

Police Chief A. G. Kettmann complimented his force on their efforts for the week, crediting their "patience, alertness and firmness which resulted in the avoidance of injury, riot and civil disturbance and serious accidents during the past 10 days."

The pattern in Palm Springs was reflected in other resort areas in southern California as some 50,000 teen-agers returned to school following the Easter week vacation.

Newport Beach police reported the number of juvenile arrests declined to 76 from last year's 196 and traffic citations were given to 107 youths this year compared with 253 last year.

Citations given by Palm Springs police dipped in mid-week but rose again toward the weekend which might have brought the total over last year. Final tabulation was not completed to press time today.

Chief Kettmann said the figures compiled so far indicated "an improved behavior pattern by our visitors and guests."

Bombings and Demonstration Lead to Move

ALGIERS (UPI) — Thousands of blue uniformed Moslem security troops with shoot-to-kill orders moved into Algiers and other big cities for the first time today to curb terrorism by the outlawed Secret Army Organization.

The troops of the new Moslem "local force" took up duties in Algiers, Bone, Oran and Constantine after major pro-OAS demonstrations and plastic bombings broke out in eastern Algerian cities.

But Secret Army terrorists slacked off their attacks on Moslems today and presented little work for the Moslem troops.

By midafternoon two Moslem deaths were attributed to terrorists, raising the year's casualty toll to 2,359 dead and 8,174 wounded.

The French government authorized security forces to shoot to kill at OAS members in the wake of the capture of OAS leader Raoul Salan Friday.

At the same time, units of the new 40,000-man Algerian "local force" — mostly Moslems — prepared to move into the Moslem quarters of the main Algerian cities to guard them against attacks by the OAS.

The moves were part of the stepped-up offensive against the outlawed European extremist organization which has boasted it can still strike "where we want, when we want and whom we want."

The shoot-on-sight order became effective at midnight. Europeans in Algiers and Oran also have been warned to stay off balconies and rooftops lest they be mistaken for OAS commandos.

The terrorists stepped up violence over the Easter weekend to show that the OAS is still a force to reckon with despite the capture of its top commander, ex-Gen. Raoul Salan.

They struck with bombs and bullets in Algiers, Oran and other major Algerian cities. On Saturday, 23 persons were killed.

Sunday—first anniversary of the abortive "generals revolt" led by Salan and three other former generals—terrorists killed 17 persons and wounded 22.

The weekend toll raised the known terrorist casualty toll since the first of the year to 3,859 dead and 8,174 wounded.

Ike and Mamie Leaving

PALM DESERT — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, will leave their winter vacation cottage at the Eldorado Country Club Sunday and return to the East Coast.

The former President's secretary Ann Whitman, said the Eisenhowers plan to leave this desert resort by train and travel to Abilene, Kan., the general's birthplace, for the dedication of the Eisenhower Library on May 1. They will then return to their Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

When the Eisenhowers took up residence here before Christmas, they planned to stay "until the snows melt in Pennsylvania."

Seek Three Feared Lost In Cave

TRENTON, Ga. (UPI) — More than 100 men snaked through the muddy passages of a mountain cave today hunting for three college students feared lost in the murky cavern for two days.

All night long three teams of rescuers probed through a baffling labyrinth of underground passages. Parents of two of the youths kept vigil at the cave's entrance.

Huge floodlights lighted up the rugged terrain of Lockout Mountain at the mouth of Case's Cave where the students' car was found early Sunday. No other trace of them has been found since.

The entrance to the northwest Georgia cave is little more than a hole in the ground. But once inside, seasoned spelunkers said the passages stretch for miles.

The missing students were identified as Bill Bartee and James H. Mason, both from Emory University, Atlanta, and Martin Hudson of Ormond Beach, Fla., a student at Presbyterian College, Clinton, S.C., all 19 years old.

They were reported to have left Atlanta, 90 miles to the southeast, on Friday to explore Case's Cave. When they did not reappear Saturday night, Mason's mother called her son's fraternity house, raising the alarm.

Ellis Josselyn Funeral Rites Set Tomorrow

PALM DESERT — Services will be conducted Tuesday in Long Beach for Ellis H. Josselyn, 87, who died Sunday morning in Riverside following an illness of several months. Josselyn lived at 44-083 Acacia Drive here.

A native of Massachusetts, Josselyn had been a Palm Desert resident for three years and had lived in California for 18 years. He was a pharmacist in a Long Beach drug store for many years.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Emma J. Anderson and Mrs. Marian Clay, both of Palm Desert.

The services will be conducted at 10 a.m. at the Wiefels and Son chapel with the Rev. Morris Chase, assistant pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church officiating. Interment will be at All Souls Cemetery in Long Beach.

Airport in New Deal On May 1

George Moore, Butler Aviation Co. official, is slated to arrive here late Wednesday, and begin setting up procedures for the firm's takeover for fixed base operations at Palm Springs Airport by May 1.

Delmar Canady, City airport manager, said Moore advised the city that plans are now being made in Butler's headquarters at La Guardia Airport, New York City, for improvements of facilities here.

Butler has agreed to provide equipment worth at least $100,000 for Palm Springs maintenance operations. The firm has an exclusive contract for fueling non-airline planes here, and may perform maintenance, air flight and air school services. The contract, expected to bring the city more than $1,000 monthly in initial stages, extends 20 years with five year review of fueling gallonage pay to the city.

Berlin Easter Suffers Shock Waves of Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist MIG jets broke the Easter weekend calm today by crashing through the sound barrier and sending shock waves into West Berlin.

The jets, believed to be Soviet MIG-19s, broke the sonic barrier at least three times in less than an hour.

Two of the MIGs created an "x" of white vapor trails above downtown West Berlin.

Another MIG dived vertically above the residential Stiglitz district, its sonic crash rattling windows and startling strollers.

Active Weekend For Spa Police

Palm Springs police had an active weekend, punctuated by reports of losses ranging from $2,700 in cash to a $750 diamond.

The Desert Inn hotel reported loss of approximately $2,700 early Saturday. Lt. Robert White reported today. The hotel's accountant, Alexander Jablow, said the missing cash may have been taken by an employee sometime between midnight and 8 a.m. Saturday, White said.

Officers are investigating the matter today, but have made no arrests in the case, White reported.

William W. Lock, 1861 Navajo Street, told officers Sunday that a one and one-quarter carat diamond valued at $750 had apparently fallen from its setting.

The dropped diamond search was added to a search for a pearl necklace, reported lost by Donna Paiker, Los Angeles.

Paiker said the necklace, mounted on a platinum strand, was probably lost in the vicinity of Palm Springs Golf Course. The loss was valued at $350 to $500, officers said.

Hot Springs Collision Injures 3

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — Three persons were injured here Saturday shortly after noon in a two-car collision at the corner of Mesquite and Fourth streets, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Rita Horn, 27, Bryan Horn, 2, and Isidor Hornstein, 75, all of Los Angeles, were taken to a private physician following the crash. Cars involved were driven by Martin Horn, 32, of Los Angeles, and Thomas Kurtz, 66, of Desert Hot Springs. Neither driver was hurt, and the injured passengers were all in the vehicle driven by Horn.

Kurtz's car was southbound on Mesquite and Horn was traveling east on Fourth when the cars collided at the intersection, according to the CHP.

Reds Rehearse

MOSCOW (UPI) — Several hundred armored vehicles rumbled across Red Square early this morning in the Russian Army's first rehearsal for the traditionally big May Day parade.

Western observers spotted what appeared to be one new model self-propelled gun among the cannon, missiles and other armaments shrouded in canvas. The rehearsal lasted nine minutes.

Russia, Red China in New Trade Agreement

TOKYO (UPI)—Russia and Red China have signed a new trade agreement for 1962 and issued strong declarations of "undying friendship." Radio Peiping has announced.

The Red broadcasts left some big questions unanswered—at least for the rest of the world—regarding Sino-Soviet economic relations. The biggest of these was what Peiping is going about repayment of Soviet loans and trade debts.

The only clue to this question the Communist broadcasts afforded was a remark by Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien at a Friday night banquet in Peiping.

"The Chinese people greatly appreciate the cooperation and assistance of the Soviet government and people and thank them for this," Li said. "At the same time, the Chinese people are doing their best to supply the Soviet people with the materials they need." This could be interpreted to mean that Red China is having difficulty in paying its Soviet debts. It is known that the Chinese Reds owe a huge trade debt to Russia, and that payments on Soviet loans extended in the early and middle 1950's are coming due.

The chief Soviet economic negotiator, Foreign Trade Minister N. S. Patolichev, was quoted by Peiping Radio as saying that "the talks . . . would consolidate the close economic and relations between the Soviet Union and China and their everlasting, unbreakable friendship."

THOUSAND PALMS

Daughter and Family In H. Lennies Visit

THOUSAND PALMS — Mr. and Mrs. H. Lennie had the pleasure of the company of their daughter and three grandchildren for a few days. While Don was in Georgia on business for the Edwards Air Force base, Mary Jean Macpherson brought Lori, Bruce, and Donny to the desert for a visit with grandparents Lennie in Thousand Palms and Macpherson in Palm Springs. Later she and the children saw Don's parents off on a ship for Australia. They toured the ship and had lunch on board before its departure.

The Harry Samelsons of San Jacinto Dunes combined pleasure with business in Los Angeles. While looking after some property in the city, they were entertained to dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Goler, part-timer desert residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cornelius, with sons Bobby and Jimmy from Anaheim, were guests of his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Cornelius on Sierra del Sol.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bachelder and daughter Traci from Clairmont were guests of the Finsons on Calle Jessica. Mrs. Bachelder is a granddaughter of Edward Finson and a grandniece of Mary and Eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sanden of Tijuana were guests of Mrs. Cloe Vogus on Calle Jessica. This friendship dates back many years to Mahomen, Minn., where the Sandens and the Vogus lived before they came to California. Mrs. Vogus entertained the Michael Edwards of Hidden Springs Ranch at dinner on Sunday.

The Roy Vessels visited among friends and old neighbors, spending a happy week with them. They had been residents on Arbol Real for 12 years, and moved to El Cajon last year. They called upon the Slopers, Gillums, Doves, McGhie, and Geckles.

The Harry Samelson, on Rio Del Sol, entertained the young people of Palm Springs Assembly of God Church at a party in their home. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Japalo, little Cindy and Rocky of Cathedral City; Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Kelley and Sandra of Palm Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nurdyke and sons Larry Jr. and Michael now residing in the W. Trough home on Marta, San Jacinto Dunes, and the Rev. and Mrs. L. Coffee.

The Misses Helen and Grace Hyde of Desert Moon Ranch invited the community of Thousand Palms to a dinner on April 28. Door prize will be an original oil painting by a local artist. Proceeds from the evening will be given toward the chamber of commerce building fund.

Sararis Gain

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — A company has been organized here with the intent of making African big game safaris something other than a millionaire's pastime. The Uganda Wildlife Co. is building lodges in key game hunting areas and plans to offer package tours, beginning this summer. The company says its tours will still be expensive, but only about half as costly as a privately organized safari.

Next to food, clothing, and shelter an automobile is the most expensive item for a great many families, the American Bankers Association reports.

Mr. Art Letherby
The Desert Sun
Palm Springs, California

Dear Mr. Letherby:

I just had to write you a note to tell you that when I got to the store this morning, people were lined up in front of the store, just waiting for me to open the doors. Their usual greeting was, "I saw your ad in The Desert Sun, etc.", and Art, this only goes to show you, when you let the public know, through your local newspaper, that you give honest dollar value, you can't help but be a success in business. These people weren't just looking, they were really shopping and buying.

Arthur Brisbane once said, "When you are in business, advertise so the public will know what you have and when you give them what you advertise, the public will make a path to your door, even if you are in the desert, but, if you don't want to advertise, advertise your business for sale, just so long as you advertise."

I'm very happy with the results that advertising in The Desert Sun has brought. It should only happen to everyone in business.

"I TOLD HIM YOU WANTED HIM TO COME HOME, MRS. MITCHELL, BUT HE SAYS HE'S AN ORPHAN!"

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It's getting so television's doctors and lawyers don't necessarily save lives or win cases any more, but just exude honesty all over the place.

The latest entry in this area occurred Thursday night when ABC-TV returned its series, "The Law and Mr. Jones," to the air, thanks to half a million viewers who wrote letters or signed petitions asking the network to bring it back.

The lawyer-hero of this show, Abraham Lincoln Jones — played by James Whitmore — insults as many people and makes as many mistakes in half an hour as "Ben Casey" does in twice the time. But he's honest.

Few would fault this slight trend toward the imperfect hero or the admiration for the non-organization man. In fact, I'm writing a script about a secretary who ignores her boss' dictation and sends her own uncompromising letters; the business is ruined, but everyone feels honest.

Thursday night's "Jones," in which he defended a policeman accused of implication in a jewel theft, was full of dedication and meaning and stuff like that there — but it was not very convincing drama, although it made a good point about the two-faced attitude of many celebrities toward publicity.

Whitmore is a whale of an actor, famous for his performances in the movies "Battle Ground" and "The Asphalt Jungle." He looks and acts like a young Spencer Tracy, and displays the same swift flights from anger to humor. In fact, there's a story that the late L. B. Mayer hired him at MGM to put a little fear into Tracy, who was kicking up his heels.

"Jones" may have its ratings headaches — it's up against NBC-TV's "Hazel." But it displaced "Marge," and that's a victory, however small. A really big victory would have been if half a million viewers wrote in demanding the return of "Omnibus" or "Playhouse 90."

Woman Is Dynamo Of Energy

In the person of Velma Hooper McCall, wife of Dr. Roy McCall, president of the College of the Desert, is concealed a dynamo of energy which is channeled into many areas. Foremost in her array of accomplishments for this year is the planning of the 59th annual convention of the P. E. O. Sisterhood. In her capacity as general chairman for the conclave, Mrs. McCall will climax her efforts in the convention at the Hotel Riviera in Palm Springs May 8, 9, and 10.

In spite of devoting hundreds of hours to the convention planning, Mrs. McCall, always poised and gracious, has carried on her duties as wife of the "prexy," as well as being a "prexy" herself. As president of her own P.E.O. chapter, KV of Palm Springs and of the Palm Desert Woman's Club, she has brought poise and dignity to these offices.

In addition she has found ample time for her two sons, Dan, 22 and David, 13. David, an eighth grader, was recently honored by being given the Outstanding Boy Scout Life Award. Dan, a graduate of Stanford, is now engaged in graduate study at the University of California at Berkeley.

A native of Canada, but now a citizen of the United States, Mrs. McCall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hooper of Redlands, came to California when she was very young. She entered the sixth grade in Redlands schools and continued to become a graduate of the University of Redlands.

Her hobbies, she states, are college students, and this interest has been a motivating force in her life in teaching, counselling and the activities which surround the life of the wife of a college president.

In commenting on the P.E.O. Sisterhood, Mrs. McCall praises it as an organization which is of real service to women aside from its major philanthropies. Describing it as an organization of universal nature with something beyond a little group of women but rather many women united in the service of philanthropy and education within a social framework.

A woman of Mrs. McCall's broad outlook on life wuld of necessity find many fields in which to be of service and she is a member of the A.A.U.W. Pan-Hellenic, as well as Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teaching sorority.

CALIFORNIA DATES and oranges pick up additional taste temptation by the use of chocolate in this delectable dessert that is so easy to make and so delicious to eat.

Date Cream Chocolate Roll Appeals with Three Flavors

"Date Cream Chocolate Roll" is an easy-to-make, delectable dessert. Its date-orange filling is folded into whipped cream, then spread between chocolate wafers. The trio of flavors — chocolate, orange and fresh California dates — is an interesting combination. Cut the cake on the diagonal for handsome service. If there should be any left (not likely!) wrap it carefully and keep in the freezer.

Chop 1 1/3 cups pitted fresh California dates. Combine with 3/4 cup orange juice and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 2 tablespoons sugar and dash of salt in a saucepan. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, until the sauce is thickened. Cool, then chill. Whip 1 pint (2 cups) heavy cream until almost stiff; fold into chilled date-orange mixture. Using 3/4 of the date cream, spread 3 dozen (2-inch

THOSE ANTIQUES

How Do You Know They Are Real?

Recently, a Massachusetts blanket chest sold for $375; presumably, it dated back to 1790. A New England antique dealer asked $2,500 for a case clock made in Guilford, Connecticut, around 1700. A whopping $100,000 was paid for a small Louis XV table . . . top price ever paid at an auction for a single piece of furniture.

How do these collectors know they are getting the real thing? Along with their magpie instinct for gathering anything and everything that might fit into their treasure hordes . . . do they have the know-how to distinguish the authentic from the phony — the real from the imitation? Can the "amateur" antique buyer establish any ground rules to insure the validity of his own purchases?

Doing business with a reliable dealer is the first wise move—but it is not always a guarantee of authenticity. An imitation antique—once sold to a gullible collector—may start a brilliant career, passing from hand to hand with all the respect due a venerable relic.

Thorns in the side of the honest dealers throughout the country are the swindlers in the business—trying for a share of the $250 million a year spent by American antiquists.

There is the story of the dealer who sold a Provincial dressing table supposedly dating to about 1780 for $465. The buyer was convinced of the table's age because of the smudgy color of the finish. But, after a few weeks in the new owner's home, the table was noticed to give off an unpleasant odor.

The cause? Not old age, but the fraudulent appearance of antiquity. The expensive "antique" was no more than a newly-made table, smoked to reproduce the patina of old age.

Fraudulent dealers have been known to "age" a washstand or mirror frame simply by standing it in the hot sun for a few weeks to allow it to discolor and become slightly misshapen.

The wise buyer arms himself in advance with accurate information about the type of furniture made and used in the particular period he's interested in . . . plus the tools and building methods used by craftsmen in bygone years.

For example, you'll never fall victim to the seller of an early American four-poster double bed, if you remember that no such thing ever existed: A single bed of this style, might be the real article, though.

Before bothering to calculate whether your budget can withstand purchase of a handmade painted Boston rocking chair, a few other things should be considered. It might be a good buy, but first check the shape of the legs. If truly handmade, they won't be perfectly round. Nor will each leg be an exact match with the others. The same measure of authenticity serves to judge hand-pegged furniture. Since joiners cut dowels individually, handmade pegs are never smooth and even as machine made parts would be.

The Connecticut pine corner cupboard, dated 1800, which you may be admiring is probably authentic . . . if boards look well matched and no knots are in evidence. Old craftsmen took great pride in their work, had almost unlimited choice of prime lumber—and discarded imperfect woods for the unmarked.

The soft gleam of patina on aged wood is a good indication that you're viewing a real antique. Patina color should be even and thin as a gossamer. A heavy layer could be creamed on by an unscrupulous vendor.

Now and then someone comes up with what purports to be an antique whiskey bottle from an early distiller. Examine with care! Much of the whiskey sold before 1900 was shipped in wooden kegs, not glass. Not that antique whiskey bottles don't exist — they do. But to be sure you've got one, you need expert advice as to whether the specified brand was actually sold at the time indicated — and there will often be documentary evidence (old ads, etc.) to back it up.

Are you confused about the authenticity of a handsome grandfather's clock . . . because the carvings its bears seem to have been done in different periods? Don't be too hasty to turn it down. It's possible that different owners at various times chose to decorate a plain panel with workmanship of their own generation. The clock may be all the more valuable for its mixed ancestry.

Many would-be collectors have acquired a liberal education just by regular attendance at auctions and antique shows. But even the best of them get fooled sometimes. No amount of warning will shake the determination of a true antique fan when he is on the trail of a good buy.

IT'S A TRICKY BUSINESS buying antiques, but it can be rewarding. Successful antique hunting depends on knowledge and energy, but collectors will tell you that it's well worth the effort to own "the history of our people as written into things their hands made and used . . . like a book, if you can but read it."

Thinking Machine for Grammar Is Unveiled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A grammar-conscious thinking machine which deals with words instead of figures was unveiled at the Western Psychological Convention in San Francisco Friday.

Finance Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the fourth time, the New York Stock Exchange has sent the companies listed on the exchange a reminder that they would do well to keep stockholders, employees, and the general public well-informed on what they were doing, and why.

Never before, said Ruddick C. Lawrence, exchange vice president, in an introduction to the booklet, "have so many U. S. corporations had to communicate with so many vast and varied audiences."

The tools they use, the NYSE has found, are publications and public displays in a growing variety. All types of shareholders, old, new and potential, may be targets for reports, explanations, financial statements from the modern corporation.

Lawrence describes the Stock Exchange editorial guide as "another step that will help a nation of investors receive the kind of information they need for sound decisions."

A review of its contents shows that the old type company annual report, factual as it may have been but often bleak in its presentation, is not completely out of favor, but has competition.

For example, corporations may use the annual report to give detailed descriptions of products; some use photography and color with outstanding effect.

A few follow up their annual meetings with special reports on the meeting, sometimes complete with pictures and with excerpts from the questions and answers.

Still others have a program of surveying shareholders. The exchange keeps a department of research and statistics which may give confidential counsel to companies on planning and executing these surveys.

The machine's developer envisioned a day when such machines would replace research libraries. The device, known as "Synthex," was demonstrated by Dr. Launor F. Carter, vice president and director of research for the System Development Corp. of Santa Monica, which created the machine. "Where is Alaska located?" Carter asked the machine orally.

The machine paused, ruminated, came up with three possible answers, discarded two, and finally blurted out, "Alaska is located on a peninsula of the northwest American continent."

Carter said the key to the success of the synthex is its knowledge of grammar.

He explained that "Synthex" was fed information contained in two encyclopedias and several scientific American magazines.

When the question was asked, the machine dug into its data for the answer, armed with the knowledge that it was looking for a "where" type reply.

The three alternatives it found were:

"Many fisheries are located in Alaska."

"The capital of Alaska is located in Juneau."

"Alaska is located on a peninsula of the northwest American continent."

Since it was working with the "where" concept, Carter said, (others include "who," "what," and "when"), the machine decided that Alaska, grammatically, must be the subject of the answering sentence.

Then, he went on, the device concluded that "is located" must be the verb form in the answer because the question sought a location.

After that, he said, it was a breeze.

Carter said that computers have dealt with numbers and formulas for years, but added, "As far as I know, Synthex is the first machine of its type which deals with the English language."

THE CLOCK SAYS:

U.S. Has 185 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's constantly-increasing population reached 186 million Saturday.

The Census Bureau's population "clock" — a device which resembles the mileage meter in an auto dashboard — hit 186 million at about 2 p.m. EST.

Officials said that the reading was symbolically accurate but not scientifically precise. The "clock" shows a gain of one person every 10 1/2 seconds of the day. It is shut off at night and corrected in the morning on the basis of the following averages:

A birth occurs every 7 1/2 seconds.
Someone dies every 19 seconds.
An immigrant arrives in the United States every 1 1/2 minutes.
Someone leaves this country every 23 minutes.

Oil Drilling Set In 29 Palms Area

TWENTYNINE PALMS — A new effort will be made this week to seek oil on the high desert by Eddie LeBaron of Palm Springs and Los Angeles. The well-known oil developer plans to start drilling about five miles north of here.

The venture will take place west of the Marine base here on Section 28, Township 2 North, Range 8 East, part of a contiguous 4,000-acre piece which he holds in that area. Equipment is already on the way to the location and it will be ready by Thursday to start drilling.

Found Before
LeBaron reports he will use the most modern technology and tests will be made on the site all the way to 1,000 feet. The general area has never been fully explored, according to LeBaron, except about three years ago when a company drilled not far away and found about three barrels of very high gravity oil around the 1300 foot level. The operation was stopped because of the tremendous quantities of water which were found.

The attempt will be LeBaron's third try in the desert area. A well was drilled in the Beaumont area which proved negative and another was made near Palm Springs in Whitewater, where his findings were used by the Texas

Nixon Affair Set Friday

A Nixon-for-Governor luncheon will be held Friday at the Eldorado Country Club, according to an announcement from Supervisor Norman J. Davis, county finance chairman for the Nixon-for-Governor committee.

Reservations for the public luncheon may be obtained from the local Republican Assembly office at 440 N. Palm Canyon Drive, from Edgar McCoubrey in Palm Springs, or Mrs. George Berkey at Rancho Mirage. Tickets may also be obtained in the Indio area from Elton Gebhardt.

Luncheon officials announced that reservations would be accepted on a first come, first served basis and would be limited to 200. Principal speaker at the event will be Maurice Stans, former director of the Bureau of the Budget. It is anticipated that former President Eisenhower, who maintains a winter home at Eldorado, might drop by.

Military Honors This Afternoon For Lt. Lingan

Full military honors by personnel of March Air Force Base will be conducted this afternoon for Lt. James E. Lingan, 28, who was killed in a plane crash while on training maneuvers with the Air Force at Del Rio, Texas last Tuesday.

Services will be conducted at 1 p.m. today for Lt. Lingan at the Wiefels and Son Chapel with the chaplain from the March Air Force base officiating. Interment will be at Desert Memorial Park.

Lt. Lingan, a native of Florida, lived in Palm Springs for several years. He leaves a widow, Veronica, and two daughters, Loretta and Katherine. Other survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lingan of Tujunga; his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Prieto Jr. of Palm Springs; two sisters and three brothers.

Formerly employed in Palm Springs, Lt. Lingan entered the service from Occidental College in Los Angeles.

FAMILY FROM INDIO

Nine Killed in Crash

BRAWLEY, Calif. (UPI)—Nine persons returning home after the Easter holiday, four of them children, were killed Sunday night and four others injured seriously in what was believed to be one of California's worst highway crashes.

The Highway Patrol said a northbound station wagon carrying nine persons, who had spent the Easter weekend with relatives in Mexicali, Mexico, was rammed by a sedan on a curve west of the desert community of Westmorland on U. S. 99, 10 miles west of here.

Seven persons in the station wagon and two of the four passengers in the sedan died, according to officers.

Five of the victims were pronounced dead on the scene of the crash and four others died shortly after at Pioneer Memorial Hospital.

Chief Deputy Coroner Richard Ramirez identified the dead as Jacob Urias, 33, Indio; his wife, Victoria, in her 30s; their children, Benjamin, 4, Rosavella, 8; Dolores, 7, and Raymond, 18 months; Frederico Gallego Medina, 20, Jose Palomo, of Thermal and Sacramento, and Tomas Novello Gonzales, about 20, from the Coachella Valley.

We Need This Soul Searching

The process known as soul-searching often accomplishes wonders where other methods fail. And it may save the Palm Springs Community Chest, now teetering on the brink.

With only slightly more than half of its goal achieved after four and one half months of campaigning, directors of the Chest organization are seriously considering throwing in the sponge.

But before folding and retiring from the field leaving the eight agencies, dependent upon it for funds, with depleted treasuries and curtailed programs, they wisely called them in for this soul-searching session.

This action may save the community chest which in past years has accomplished much here but which has faltered in recent years. This lessening of interest is attributed to many causes — a plethora of fund campaigns, the steady stream of appeals to give to this or that, the whoop-de-do campaigns in business firms to go 100 per cent because other firms did — a sort of commercial keeping up with the Jones — solicitors at every turn. All of these theories probably have a bearing.

The chief reason for the lag may be that the campaign got out of hand. The ideas of some may have become a bit grandiose. The budgets of benefiting agencies may have been set beyond actual needs. They had plenty of examples in governmental agencies.

Many factors were listed when 30 representatives of the chest and agencies to benefit met last week to take down their hair, so to speak, and look at the situation factually.

When the budgets of the agencies were totalled up and came to $114,000, the chest finance committee recommended that it be reduced to $77,000.

That, according to the Rev. Frederick Barnhill, vice-president of the chest committee, would have meant an almost 100 per cent success. He pointed out that $53,113 has been raised and that the chest organization could look forward to its share of Saturday night's Optimist Fiesta Mexicana and other monies from the Desert Classic, with confidence that the total would be raised to $75,000.

But the committee was overruled. Everybody was thinking big — apparently too big. And the Chest will have difficulty in reaching three-fourths of its goal, if that much.

The original idea of the community chest was to wrap up all fund drives in one. With their donations made to the chest, people would not be bothered by solicitations, mailed or via doorbell ringing, until the next year's chest drive.

That idea, which had great merit, long ago went by the boards. Even the agencies which benefit from the Chest conducted their own private drives in addition to the funds they asked from the central campaign. It was charted.

There were many other campaigns, each in itself worthy enough but when all added together, too great a burden on the public beset by other rising costs.

In past months the common citizen whose small contribution added to that of his neighbor and his neighbor's neighbors in a widening circle, took care of things. Now, however, the brunt is being born by a few. The ordinary citizen has been bled white, he claims, by the multitude of fund requests.

The community chest is not yet dead. But it is in a critical state and its fate hinges on the result of another meeting this week when these in line to receive aid will be asked to come down to earth.

This soul-searching of the community chest will do much good. It will bring realization of a trend which has many people of the kindest and most generous nature wondering if things aren't getting a bit out of hand.

We hope that the community chest committee will not quit the field. They have done a great job in the face of obstacles.

But their action has brought to the surface a worsening situation which, if corrected, will not only save our worthy charities but also save our citizens from what has been termed "too much of a good thing."

It Could Cost You to be Cute

It was once thought cute or, at least, smart when confronted with the need to make a payment held unjust, to make that payment in a manner to embarrass or harass the payee. Such as in pennies which take a long time to count.

As practically all traffic fines are considered unjust by those who have to pay them, this category provides the broadest base for off beat payments by irked people.

But somebody went too far and now there's a law.

Some time ago a wise guy, as he was known colloquially, found a ticket under his windshield alleging overtime parking. There was an addressed envelope in which he was invited to thrust a dollar bill and thus save a time-consuming ride to the court in the Civic Center. Instead of appreciating this consideration, the man became angered.

He vowed he'd get even and assembled 100 pennies which he mailed to the judge. There are always copycats so soon Judge Gene Theriau began getting plenty of pennies.

But one man who parked too long, overplayed his hand. When his supply of pennies arrived, the judge had to shell out 53 cents for postage due. That did it.

City Manager Dan Wagner probably figured that the dollar was already sufficiently devaluated and a further 53-cent cut was too much.

So now if you want to be cute, be sure the postage is right. Or you may have to dig up some more money to pay another kind of fine.

And, besides, it isn't smart to pay more than half again as much as the fine, for postage just because you're peeved.

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Salvation of an Egghead Extremist

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The United States Senate is good for what ails most of its new members. If they come here acting bumptious or biased, surly or vain, a few years in the Citadel will cure some of them and improve practically all. I have learned that it's a mistake to take anything approaching an inflexible dislike of Senators. If you can't stand their idiosyncrasies wait a year or so.

As a preamble to a column about Senator William Proxmire (D., Wis.), it should be noted that he succeeded the best-known Senator in the world at that time, the late Joe McCarthy who died in May, 1957. Coming to Washington that summer by special election, the tall, lean, balding Proxmire, 41, attracted more than ordinary attention. McCarthy's enemies bitterly hoped the new man would commit some macabre insult to his departed predecessor, while McCarthy's friends undoubtedly resented seeing anybody else in their hero's place.

To Proxmire's credit, he did not trade upon McCarthy's memory, but he soon achieved notoriety of a different sort — as the most unbridled money spender (on paper) of the Eisenhower opposition. President Ike, who prided himself on never dealing in personalities, did refer anonymously but disapprovingly of Proxmire as the fellow whose bills, if passed, would just about double the size of the Federal budget.

Proxmire gained a six-year term in 1958, and in the next session he scandalized the Democratic regulars by the brazen heresy of attacking their peerless Majority Leader, Lyndon B. Johnson. The audacious newcomer called upon the party to revolt from Johnson's leadership and to divest him of many cherished powers and privileges.

It was the act of a know-it-all freshman in a body which changes its members by political attrition and human mortality, but always remains the same. Proxmire became something of a pariah within the Club and a laughingstock in the galleries.

But Proxmire is a different person today. The salubrious atmosphere of the Senate chamber has worked wonders on the ego which was swollen with the self-importance of being a bright boy of Yale '38 and a Master of Arts from both the Harvard Business School and the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. Instead of preening himself of these distinctions, as he did at the beginning, Proxmire began to make use of his undoubted brains and excellent education.

The results showed up last

Here all through May."

The above is the rhyming (we hope) version of a complaint from a man who stopped me on the Drive.

HE REMINDED ME that each year along about the start of April, these pieces always went into ecstatic prose about the beauties of the month of May on our desert.

"And here it is almost the end of April and I haven't read a thing about 'the best month of the year' in Palm Springs. In fact, you haven't even mentioned the word 'May.'"

I told him it probably was the press of other things like the Angels, the devils (we always have them week before Easter) and sundry other diversions.

THAT MAY BUSINESS started even before Francis Crocker thought of the tramway.

The late Nellie Coffman, who launched many worthwhile projects in Palm Springs besides the Desert Inn, was talking to a newspaper advertising man one day in May.

He noticed she had a fire going in the grate and made some vacuous remark about it being pretty cool for May.

MRS. COFFMAN then told him that in the years she had been here, May had always been on the cool side no matter how many times the mercury topped 100 degrees in April.

"I think it is one of the best months on the desert," she added.

The ad man listened respectfully for once not talking like ad men generally do, and went on his way.

HE FORGOT ABOUT IT until the next April when business in his line was tailing off. Easter had been early that year and people were going away and many stores talking of closing.

Then he remembered. And went around to the merchants in a persuasive way. Talked them into a series of cooperative page advertisements extolling the beauties of the May climate.

And thus, in the late 30s, started that "Stay Through May" slogan.

WHEN UNCLE SAM laid a hand on him at the start of World War II, he bequeathed the idea to me. So for more than 20 years I have been plugging that May bit, starting early in April.

Of late, however, not so loud. The pitch is hardly needed now. Most people stay through May anyway. They know from experience how nice it is and don't have to be told.

IN MY YEARS HERE I can recall one April day when the mercury boiled up to 117 degrees. And the next month — May, naturally — was most beautiful.

So nice that air conditioning men were glumly considering hari kari.

So if it sizzles this week, don't be down-hearted. May is just around the corner.

And if it sizzles next month, don't call me.
My line's busy.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a long-distance operator and my voice must be very interesting because I've had many men try to make dates with me. I was never interested, because what kind of man would want to go out with a girl he's never seen? Anyway, Christmas Eve a man was trying desperately to phone his girl and he was miserable because he couldn't locate her. He liked my voice and I liked his manner and, to make a long story short, I let him pick me up after work. (Please don't let on where this letter is from because I could get fired.) Well, we are going together now, but when people ask me how I met him, what should I say? —GIRL WITH THE SMILING VOICE

DEAR GIRL: Put that smile in your voice and tell your party to dial information.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column faithfully ever since it began six years ago and I agree with your answers about 99 per cent of the time. But there is one part of your thinking that is full of prejudice, and very narrow-minded, to say the least, and that is marriage outside one's faith. I hope you will be big enough to print this, Abby, because I would like to see letters from intelligent people who have made such marriages work. —A DEVOTED ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: So would I.

Remember When

April 23, 1952

City council adopted two resolutions taking a slap at the Palm Springs News, affiliate of The Desert Sun for its attempts to publicize the expenditures of councilmanic missions to Washington, D. C., to discuss Indian land affairs.

Stewart Hopps was honored at a civic luncheon at the Chi Chi for his successful conduct of the 16th annual Desert Circus.

City Council adopted a "hole the line" policy on the annual budget and promised there'd be no hike in taxes.

April 23, 1942

Several local firms cooperated in a publicity campaign urging "Stay Through May" as the best month of the year on the desert.

Dorothy Bear, librarian, announced the Welwood Murray Memorial Library would be headquarters for a new campaign to "give a book to a serviceman."

Fire Chief William Leonosis sounded a warning against a serious fire hazard as the department fought two brush blazes.

April 23, 1932

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., journalist, was a visitor at The Desert Sun office. He was on a tour for Liberty Magazine surveying the political situation in the southwest.

King C. Gillette, the safety razor man, who spent the winter at his pretentious home here, left for Los Angeles where he filed an $80,000 suit against a New York attorney for an accounting of trust funds.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column to the thoughtless parents who buy their children live baby chicks for Easter. The kiddies soon chase or squeeze the life out of the helpless little birds and really enjoy them less than their candy Easter eggs. —CHICKEN-HEARTED

DEAR CHICKEN-HEARTED: I, too, am "chicken-hearted" and hope that your timely letter will cause parents to think twice before giving live baby chicks to children who are too young to care for them properly.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend told me he loved me and wanted to marry me. He said his wife was older than he was and he never loved her. He moved to Dallas and paid my way there so I could be near him while he waited for his divorce.

That was a year ago. Now I find out that two other women besides myself followed him there. One is a brunette about 24. And the other is a gray-headed woman in her fifties who even divorced her husband and brought her grown daughter along!

All this time he has been feeding us all the same line. His wife is not older than he is. She's a nice-looking blonde woman. Should I tell the other women he has made fools of us? (I feel kind of sorry for the old one.) I hate to hurt his wife by telling her, but I think she ought to know what a rat she married. I am going back home, but why should that liar get away with anything? —FOOLED

DEAR FOOLED: Tell the others. They'll get over the disappointment when they learn they've been part of a hare. And his wife should know, too. He's had his three strikes.

DEAR ABBY: I swear my wife has sleeping sickness. We both work to help pay off our house. She gets out of work before I do (half an hour) and falls asleep waiting for me. At supper time she is always the first one through, and she often lays her head on the table and falls asleep while waiting for me and the children to finish. When I finish, I clear the table, put the children to bed, and then I wake her up (at the table) so she can go to the couch and sleep somewhere while I watch TV. She sleeps on the couch until midnight, and then I wake her up so she can go to the bedroom, get into her nightclothes and go to sleep. She sleeps all night and wakes up at 7:00 A.M. The next day it's the same story over again. When we go anywhere, she falls asleep in her chair. Her mother and father both have sugar diabetes and take insulin daily. Could this have anything to do with it? My wife refuses to go to a doctor. I am worried. —WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your wife should see a doctor at once for a thorough check-up. Insist on it, and don't take "no" for an answer.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BOB CONSIDINE:

After All, They Are Just New York Joints

NEW YORK—Nice out-of-town couple approached the doorman in front of Toots Shor's joint last night and timidly inquired, "Is it possible just to have a drink in there?"

Intrigued, I ventured inside behind them and found—just as the doorman had said—that it is possible, if you play your cards wrong. So did the nice out-of-town couple. They can go back home now and, for a time at least, begin all conversations with "funny thing happened to us while having a drink at Toots Shor's the other night. There was this stout headwaiter who seemed to be abusing somebody we could have sworn was Jackie Gleason when, suddenly . . ."

The reason for bringing this up is to point out that the legend of exclusivity that has grown up around New York restaurants and night clubs is phonyer than a New Year's resolution. For unfathomable reasons, a lot of Americans feel there is something special about a New York gin mill, and that entrance to same can be gained only through an act of Congress or a Papal Bull.

They can use the business. I went to a place outside Utica, N.Y., late Saturday night and it was jumping with more action than probably was exploding in El Morocco, the Stork, and half a dozen other places in New York.

When my wife and I first came to New York from Washington, D.C., 25 years ago we felt it proper to come with our passports stamped by the only sophisticated we knew—George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins. We later wrote him, thanking him for getting us in '21. They never have seemed to resent the business.

Doing a Fiscal Favor

For some reason, the newcomer to New York's better known places forgets that he's doing them a fiscal favor by showing up at all, and concentrates on being just so out-of-character that he is almost unbearable even to himself. First time we went into the Stork, for example, I have a couple of shots, then snapped my fingers delicately for a captain. It could have been the great Jack Spooner himself.

"Captain," I said, "what time does your floor show start?" It was the first time I ever heard the word "square" used in that context.

Of course, some headwaiters try to give their booze troughs the aura of the sacrosanct, but in some of them are more interested in hussling a buck from the unwary visitor than keeping him from profaning the place by his presence. Headwaiters can demur on other grounds, too, including the ethnic.

George Jessel was stopped one night at the plush rope of one of the better restaurants when he approached it with Miss Lena Horne. They were appearing on a TV show together, and the poor beautiful woman was hungry.

"Sorry, we're all booked," the headwaiter sternly said to George. Jessel looked inside and was momentarily blinded by the vast artistic waste of white tablecloths at empty positions.

"What about all those tables?" he asked.

"Reserved," the man intoned. "Did you have a reservation?"

"Yes, a table was reserved for us," George said.

"Really? By whom?" the guy asked, raising an eyebrow.

"Abraham Lincoln," George said.

They had a nice dinner.

He Can Be Tough

The customer can afford to be tougher than he normally is in New York, but he usually won't be, the reputations of the places being what they are. There are exceptions, of course. Westbrook Pegler toiled into Rockefeller Center's sky-high Rainbow Room the night it opened and found himself impaled on the cold blue steel of the headwaiter's eyes.

"Where's Jack?" Peg asked. He has a couple of steels himself.

"Jack?" the man inquired, looking down his aquiline. "Jack whom?"

"Jack Rockefeller," Peg boomed. "Jack D. Rockefeller."

"Naturally, Mr. Rockefeller is not here," the horrified headwaiter gasped.

"Not here!" Peg thundered. "How does he expect to be a success in the saloon business if he doesn't hang around his own joint?"

Anyway, toodle-oo. Am off to Pavilion to look in on Hank. Hank Soule.

(Beverly Hills Citizen-News)

Sometimes we wonder how much of Congress' time is spent doing things for us that we should be doing ourselves.

Take the case of the new consumer protection law urged by President Kennedy. The American sucker would not be such a mark if he were taught a little common sense everyday economics prior to high school with a little arithmetic and reading mixed in. Then he would be able to divide the number of ounces into the cost of an item to discover which is cheaper, large, king or economy size; he would know enough to insist on seeing the government purple stamp on any meat he may have some misgivings about; he would be able to multiply his monthly payments by 12 and again by 3 or 5 years and divide the answer by the price tag on the automobile to discover that he is paying more than a 6 per cent interest rate; he would immediately know that 6 ounces is 6 ounces and a loosely packed, brightly colored package doesn't change the scale weight.

The Committee for Economic Development has proposed much the same program. We are in accord with its suggestion that the new bill confine itself to tighter controls on drug and cosmetic laws, monopoly, false advertising and proper labeling. We would then not have our intelligence insulted by legislation against one-cent sales. Who knows somewhere along the line we might even be successfully taught how to stare down a butcher.

Horoscope Forecast

By CARROL RIGHTER

Tuesday, April 24, 1962

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until "noon" you have a good chance to wind up what you have already started in motion that requires much quick action. The PM is a time to be very careful that you are not hasty or impulsive, for you could easily become involved in an unnecessary argument or accident. Be sure you do think twice — and then don't make a decision until tomorrow.

ARIES (Birthdays from Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Search for more progressive ideas this morning which can be put into operation quickly. Be firm this evening when higher-ups may be brusque because they are busy. Get what you want.

TAURUS (Birthdays from Apr. 20 to May 20) — Make collections and pay obligations early in A. M. Be careful later you don't waste time with some new friend at the expense of a good partner and work that is practical.

GEMINI (Birthdays from May 21 to June 21) — Come to firm agreements with associates in A. M. Appease anyone who opposes you, too. Take care you are not forceful where money is concerned later or you get into trouble. Don't follow any poor hunches.

MOON CHILDREN (Birthdays from June 22 to July 21) — Any work that awaits you can be done quickly and efficiently in A. M. Then get out with close ties for a good time and come to a better understanding, be more close-knit.

LEO (Birthdays from July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get to beauty or barber shop early in A. M. and then set up appointments for social or recreational activities. Get work done in the afternoon, but be precise and meticulous.

VIRGO (Birthdays from Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Get fundamental affairs, home in order by lunchtime. Then the rest of the day and evening are fine for recreational activities, but don't be extravagant, as is sometimes your habit.

LIBRA (Birthdays from Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Try to get all business matters, shopping, etc., handled before lunch so that you can then devote your time and energies to home and family. Increase beauty, harmony, cleanliness there.

SCORPIO (Birthdays from Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Get monetary affairs handled properly in A. M. Head suggestions of experts. Later, be sure you drive carefully and are gentle with associates and avoid trouble, accident.

SAGITTARIUS (Birthdays from Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Improve appearance by proper grooming or changing hairstyle in A. M. Then get busy devising more modern and efficient ways to increase income so that you have a real abundance.

CAPRICORN (Birthdays from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Fine morning for investigating and really getting the facts. Then be of assistance to close allies. Evening is best for planning future activities, ridding yourself of annoyances.

AQUARIUS (Birthdays from

Angels Shutout by Twins, 5-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Manager Bill Rigney said today he planned no drastic measures to counteract the failure of his Los Angeles Angels to get their hitting going but was hopeful the problem would solve itself.

The Angels could find Jim Kaat for only four hits Sunday as the Minnesota Twins coasted to an easy 5-0 victory.

"You've got to give Kaat credit for pitching a fine game," Rigney said. "He didn't walk a man and aside from Felix Torres' double he had things under control all the way."

The Angels manager, however, is badly in need of more right-handed hitting power. Sunday he used reserve catcher Earl Earl in left field against the south-paw Kaat.

The Angels, like the rest of the American League, had no game today. But when action resumes Tuesday young Dean Chance (0-0), who pitched well for six innings against Kansas City last week, gets the starting call. He will be opposed on the mound by Cleveland's Ron Taylor as the Indians open a three-game stand here.

Rigney said at the moment he had no plans for the Angels to go through special workouts to come out of their hitting slump.

"I've seen clubs act like this before for no apparent reason," Rigney said, "and then all of a sudden start hitting well. I'm hopeful that's what we will do."

Kaat's shutout performance in which he fanned 10 men overshadowed Minnesota's hitting as Harmon Killebrew stroked his second three-run homer in three days. It came in the third inning and the resulting 4-0 lead was more than enough for Kaat.

The Angels sent only three balls to the outfield on hits and not a single Twins' putout was recorded by an outfielder, an indication of Kaat's fine performance.

The loss was the third straight for the Angels and left them with a 5-5 record after the second week of play. George Witt, the Los Angeles starter who worked three innings, was charged with the defeat. He was followed to the mound by Joe Nuxhall, Jack Spring and Eli Grba. The Angels gave up only six hits but their own failure to hit did the damage.

Pirates Tie Record With 10th Straight Win

Cleveland and Pittsburgh turned out in baseball's finest styles on Easter Sunday but the poor bedraggled New York Mets showed up in their same old basement rags.

Nor did the New York Yankees, in their famous pin stripes, display the fancy finery they usually do as they suffered a pair of embarrassing rips at the hands of the Indians, 7-5 and 9-3.

The general pattern was toward extremes. On the bright side, for example:

—The Indians vaulted from a fifth-place tie to the top of the American League by breaking a 19-game losing streak at Yankee Stadium dating back to May 12, 1960.

—Danny Murtaugh's Pirates tied a modern major league record by beating the Mets, 4-3, for their 10th victory without a loss since the season opened.

—And the lightly-regarded Kansas City A's moved into a virtual third-place tie with the Yankees by defeating the Chicago White Sox twice, 7-1 and 7-5.

On the drab side was the Mets' ninth straight loss without a victory, equalling a National League record set by Brooklyn at the start of the 1918 season. The St. Louis Cardinals also considered it a black Sunday when they lost their first two games of the season following seven straight victories. The Chicago Cubs beat them, 11-5 and 5-1.

Tyler Sinks a Hole-in-One At Canyon CC

Dale Tyler, of San Diego, fired a hole-in-one Sunday at the Canyon Country Club course on the 16th using a five iron on the 180-yard hole.

Tyler was playing in a twosome with Bob Ronson, also of San Diego.

Weekend Sports Summary

NEW YORK (UPI) —Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage won the $91,850 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct when Sunrise County, who had finished in a dead heat for first, was disqualified.

LONDON (UPI) —Budy Edelen of Sioux Falls, Iowa, ran 10 miles in the American record time of 48 minutes, 31.8 seconds to win the English Amateur Athletic Association championship.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) —Carlos Ortiz of New York scored an upset unanimous decision over titleholder Joe Brown to win the world lightweight boxing championship.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) —Texas Southern University won the college division mile relay in the record-breaking time of 3:11.0 to become the first school in history to capture six relay races in the Kansas Relays.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Robyn Johnson of Arlington, Va., set an American record of 2:34.6 in winning the 250-yard freestyle for her third championship during the National AAU indoor swimming and diving championships. Donna De Varona of Lafayette, Calif., also won three national titles.

Marilyn Smith Captures Women's Open Golf Meet

MIAMI (UPI) —Marilynn Smith fired her third straight round of steady golf here Sunday to capture top money in the $7,500 Sunshine Women's Open golf tournament with a 214.

Despite high winds, Miss Smith carded a 71 Sunday to go with previous rounds of 71 and 72, for a five-stroke victory worth $1,200. Her two nearest competitors were Patty Berg and Kathy Whitworth at 218. Miss Berg, of Font Myers, Fla., the top money winner in women's professional golf history, wasn't in contention on the final day as she fired her second round of 74 in a row.

Miss Whitworth, who plays out of Jal, N.M., however was rallying strongly from Saturday's six-stroke deficit until she took a disastrous triple bogey on the 17th hole. She finished with a par 70. She and Miss Berg won $850.

Mickey Wright, the defending champion and winner of ten tournaments last year, finished in seventh place for $380 in prize money. She was the pre-tournament favorite.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., one of the most consistent money winners on the tour, picked up $600 for her fourth-place finish.

Sultans Nip Hollywood Stars, 4-1

The Sultans softball team, the Coachella Valley champs, defeated the group of Hollywood personalities who were playing as a team for the B-Bar-H guest ranch, 4-1, Saturday afternoon at the Polo Grounds.

The game, which was filled with action, was a charity affair to raise funds for the Angel View Crippled Children's Foundation in association with the B - Bar - H Ranch Key Club.

Such movie and TV stars as Mike Connors, of Tightrope, Jim Garner, Maverick, Doug McClure, Checkmate, Peter Brown, of Lawman and Phil Crosby were members of the Hollywood All-Star team that went down to defeat in a very thrilling and well played softball game.

Dodgers Lose to Braves, 6-3

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The so-called experts took a look at the Dodgers' pitching staff earlier this spring, mumbled a few complimentary adjectives and claimed that even with a lack of power hitting Los Angeles was the choice for the National League pennant.

Maybe so, but the performances of Dodger hurlers this past week did little to strengthen that prediction. Indeed, it may have weakened it.

Milwaukee went through four Dodger pitchers Sunday, for 12 hits, 10 walks and a wild pitch and ended up with a 6-3 win over Los Angeles to even the series between the clubs at a win each.

Granted that Los Angeles did get a fine job from Johnny Podres when he seven-hit the Braves Saturday night and a respectable performance from the combination of Sandy Koufax and Ron Perranoski to down Cincinnati, 4-3, Thursday night.

But in the three previous games the Dodger pitching staff allowed a total of 40 runs and 36 hits. Add Sunday's totals of 6 runs and 12 hits you get a fairly good idea of why Los Angeles may not be able to rely on its vaunted pitching.

Milwaukee started off Sunday with one of the Los Angeles aces, Don Drysdale, and then worked through rookie Pete Richter, veteran reliever Larry Sherry and Perranoski.

Drysdale lasted four innings and was whacked for four runs—but only one of them earned—on five hits. He also gave up five walks. Don was charged with his first loss against two wins for the season.

Drysdale's problem wasn't helped by Dodger shortstop Maury Wills who made an error with the bases loaded in the third, enabling the Braves to score three unearned tallies.

Bob Shaw of Milwaukee pitched a five-hitter and blanked the Dodgers after they shot off to a 3-0 first-inning lead on an error, Duke Snider's single and Tommy Davis' fourth homer of the season. Shaw (1-1) limited Los Angeles to three hits in the final eight innings.

Del Crandall hit a home run off Drysdale in the second, to make it 3-1 in favor of the Dodgers and then Milwaukee scored its big three in the third.

Manager Walt Alston named young Joe Moeller (0-1) to pitch tonight for Los Angeles, while Milwaukee tabbed Lew Burdette, (0-2).

Tennis Tips

By DAVID GILLAM

A tennis player must always be aware of the fact that he has got to aim his racket face at a moving target, the ball in motion. The "racket back" is consequently flexible and the height of the racket head from the court on the backswing is determined by the height of the bounce of the ball to be hit.

The most convenient height to hit a tennis ball is between the knees and the waist and the beginner should learn to swing his racket back at about the waist high level. Usually the friends you play with don't hit the ball any harder than you do so you should try to move to the ball and hit it at the waist high level. Likewise when practicing on a backboard try to keep the ball about waist high.

As you play more tennis it becomes expedient to take many of the shots at the shoulder high level. Be sure the racket goes back in the vicinity of the shoulders and you will find it more convenient to stroke the ball at that height.

When the ball is to be hit in the area of the shoe tops or ankle high, be sure that you bend the knees so that your racket is automatically lowered to the height of the ball before you start your forward motion.

The principal of lowering and raising your racket on the backswing is applicable to both the forehand and backhand shots.

Gene Johnson Of U. of Cal Leaps 7 Feet

Gene Johnson of the University of California, C. K. Yang of U.C.L.A. and Gary Bugner of New York University turned in outstanding individual efforts in track and field meets around the nation Saturday while team honors went to Texas Southern Villanova and the University of Oregon.

Johnson cleared an even seven feet in the high jump in a dual meet with UCLA to become only the fifth American in history to clear that barrier. Yang won four gold medals in the same meet; and Gubner, world indoor shot put record-holder, set a meet record of 62 feet, 2 inches in his specialty at the eighth annual Queens-Iona relays in New York.

Paul's Foursome Cops Safari Golf Tourney

Bermuda Dunes Country Club's African veldt setting created by co-owners Ray Ryan and Ernie Dunlevie was taken in stride by two of the teams in the golf club's second annual Safari Golf Tournament over the weekend.

The teams of Dick Paul, Jim McGonagill, Roger Davis and Gene Hebbard and Wally Timm, George Beebe, Jr., Joe Weiner and Ardis Hopper, undisturbed by the unusual hazards of roaring lions and trumpeting elephants, were deadlocked with a net score of 111 after 36 holes of play had been completed in the best ball foursome event.

To break the tie Pro Ed Vines and tournament chairman Paul Jenkins matched the two teams' cards against par on the first nine holes of the final day's play and declared the Dick Paul team the winner.

In third place was the team of George Glickey, George Harmon, Bob Jameson and Cliff Campbell. They carded a 112 tally.

Among the 40 foursomes competing were such luminaries as Fred Waring, Hoagy Carmichael, Howard Hawks and George Cabot.

Bordon Wins Canyon CC Golf Event

Canyon Country Club golfers staged an Easter Sweepstakes tournament yesterday and the winner was Sam Bordon as he topped the field with the low net score.

Second place was won by Hy Finerman, who posted the second best low net and third place was won by Gary McClintock.

The lush Canyon CC course, which opened Jan. 1, has recently been rated by the Southern California Golf Association as a championship 18 hole golf course and is also a member of the association.

Golfing

with ALEX MORRISON

Teacher of Champions

"On the Rail" style of putting is supposed to keep the shaft and clubhead always on the line of putt.

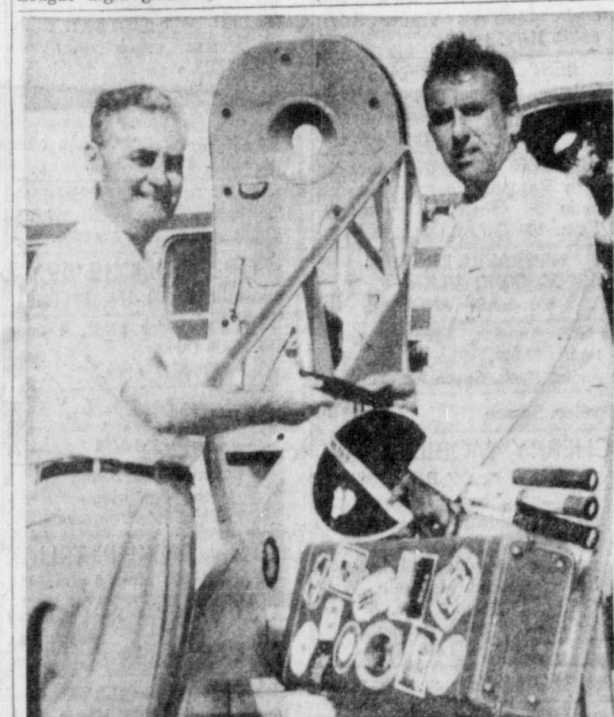

AN OFTEN-TRIED golfer's aspirin is a style of putting called "On the rail." The name describes the position and movement of the club. The putter is held in a vertical position so that the club can be moved back and forth without leaving the line of putt. It's a good idea but it seems to work only for a limited time and under certain favorable conditions.

It can't afford consistent success because the method is based on steering the club. This basis always prevents the hands from working smoothly and efficiently.

The clubface tends to scrape or push the ball forward instead of striking it crisply as it does when the player uses a swinging action.

In putting, as with all shots, maximum efficiency in striking the ball is had only by swinging the club. The best putters give the ball a crisp tap even with the shortest of putts.
